THE ADMISSION OF DAKOTA.

A Washington dispatch states that one of the first measures that will engage the attention of Congress this winter is the bill for the admission of Dakota into the Union. This bill is pending on the calendars of both houses, it having been reported from the respective Committees on Territories early in the last session. It is one of the first bills on the House calendar, and has already been up for consideration in the Senate. In the House several attempts were made to pass the bill, but the Democrats fought them on political grounds, as the admission of Dakota would give the Republicans two Senators and one Representative, and the Democrats prevented action by filibustering. The Republicans in both houses now have greater reason than ever for pressing the passage of this bill this session, as it would probably not be passed by the next Congress with the House Democratic by over sixty majority. For the next two years the Senate will be Republican only through the grace of the two Readjuster Senators from Virginia, but the two Dakota Senators would just offset the two coalition Senators should there be any attempt on the part of the latter to make a bargain with the Democrats. The admission of Dakota would also give the Republicans three additional votes in the Electoral College, which, from recent events, it is thought very important the have, and which the Democrats can prevent them from having if Dakota is not admitted this winter. It is, therefore, exceedingly probable that there will be a bitter fight on this bill the coming session, requiring the presence of every Republican Senator and member in order to pass it. Dakota is fairly entitled to admission. So also is Washington Territory and New Mexico. The JOURNAL would like to see them all in.

A WORTHLESS RESOLUTION.

Railroad Commissioner Cone, of California, on Wednesday amended his four-cent per mile resolution concerning fares, so as not to affect the Visalia Railroad, San Joaquin and Sierra Nevada Railroad, Pacific Coast Railroad, North Pacific Coast Railroad, San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad, Yerba Buena and Clear Lake Railroad, Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad, South Pacific Coast Railroad, California Southern Railroad, Bodie Railway and Lumber Company, Sonoma Valley Railroad, Santa Cruz and Felton Railroad, California Northern Railroad and Carson and Colorado Railroad. At the suggestion of Commissioner Cone, consideration of this resolution was postponed until December 5th. The Central and Southern roads have very little to fear from this four cent resolution even if it is passed on December 5th.

The law allows the railroad companies thirty days after the passage of the resolution before its provisions go into effect. This is to give the companies time to prepare revised schedules of rates. That would carry them along to January 5th, about within three days of the expiration of the terms of office of this commission. As the law provides that no board can fix rates to be held binding after its term of office expires, that would require the roads affected to charge the four cent rate for three days—from January 5th to 8th. The mountain has labored and brought forth the traditional mouse, after all.

Some impertinent fellow suggests to the State Controller, through the columns of the Carson Appeal, not to draw any more warrants in favor of School Supt. Sessions, because for a year past he has been away from the Capital, and engaged in other work than that contemplated for him when the people elected him. There is no law compelling the State Superintendent to live at the Capital, and if that officer elects to live at Eureka he has the right to do so. The people are only out his salary. They save the amount usually allowed for traveling expenses.

Estimates for the expenses of the Government next year show a decided increase. Secretary Lincoln will ignore a request of the Chief Engineer for $10,000,000 for rivers and harbors.

Louisville has inaugurated a movement for holding an exposition of Southern industries in that city next year, after the famous Atlanta model.

The Bellevue Daily Chronicle, the Bellevue Daily Sun and the Vienna Weekly Reporter, all Wood River papers, have suspended publication.

The wool clip of Oregon for 1882 has been estimated at 10,000,000 pounds, 2,000,000 in excess of that of last year. The quality, however, is inferior.

THE PAST'S LESSON FOR THE FUTURE.

The tidal wave of defeat which swept across the face of the country lately is accounted for in various ways, many having peculiar theories of their own in regard to the matter, though all are agreed on the general proposition that the prohibition agitation was one of the leading causes of the disaster. There seems to be an impression that politics and prohibition won't mix, and that every man ought to be his own temperance society. But there were many other causes for the trouble, one of which was the manifest disposition of Republican organs to assist the Democratic party in defeating the Republican party. The Cincinnati Commercial in the West, and the New York Tribune in the East were the leaders of the dissatisfactionists, and each had a large following of Republican newspapers in the rural districts who echoed the dangerous and fallacious teachings of their alleged Republican leaders. Recognized as the leading Republican journals in their respective localities, the two great newspapers found but few good words to say in favor of their party, and its leaders were abused without cause, and vilified without mercy. Did the Democracy find fault with the measures of Congress, they were ably and ardently seconded by the Republican press. The River and Harbor bill was denounced by the Democrats, and the Republican press, almost to a man, seconded the motion. Political assessments were not considered conducive to Democratic health, and the Republican press joined the hue and cry against them. The Democracy thought it mean and unfair that all the offices should be given to Republicans under a Republican administration, and a howl was raised for reform in the civil service, which was taken up by the Republican press not only, but journals were started, and by Republican managers, with an especial view of securing the reform, so-called, to assist the beloved Democracy to office, to put good Republicans in out of office, and to give some very bad ones their places. In short, the Democracy has raised no complaint which has not found sympathy and endorsement from the managers of the Republican press. No party is sufficiently strong to conquer its own leaders, to harmonize its dissatisfied elements, and at the same time defeat the leaders and main body of the opposition. The only strength is in unity of purpose, harmony of action, loyalty to party, the undeviating support of party leaders, the cordial endorsement of party measures, and unfaltering attendance at the polls. The Democracy even stands shoulder to shoulder, acting on the principle, applied to party, that "the king can do no wrong." It is time Republicans learned a lesson from the opposition, so far as sustaining one another through good report and evil report is concerned. There is a way to success in '84. It lies in making a funeral pyre of party differences, and dissensions, and of throwing away all heart-burnings, jealousies and vindictiveness, and of holding first and foremost in view the object of defeating the enemy, after which the bonfires of success may be lighted, and the camp set in order to suit circumstances.

A Great Tree-Planter.

One of the most extensive tree-planters in the world is declared by the English journal Land to be the Duke of Athole. Every year, it says, he plants from 600,000 to 1,000,000 trees. During the present season he has covered with trees a plantation of 2,000 acres. By the gale which destroyed the Tay Bridge his plantations were denuded of 80,000 trees. One of the Dukes of Athole is still known as the Planter Duke. In the year 1774 his Dunkeleel hills were almost entirely bare, and he began to plant on a large scale. Before he died he had planted 27,000,000 trees, which covered 15,000 acres.

Another Irresistible Drummer.

An Omaha dispatch of the 23d says: Will B. Corwin, an Omaha commercial traveler, was married at Hastings, yesterday, to Lula Brown, with whom he eloped from Kearney, half an hour before she was to have been married to a druggist named Shepard, who had issued a large number of invitations to the wedding. He had fitted up rooms in elegant style for his prospective bride.

Phenomenally warm weather prevailed in Connecticut during October, and in the first days of November many people were picking a second crop of strawberries, raspberries and blackberries, a second growth of green peas and stringbeans, while daisies and buttercups were found in bloom and an occasional rose bush or apple tree was full of blossoms.

Now is Your Chance.

Miss M. A. Harney is selling out her entire stock at reduced rates. She accordingly invites all the ladies to come and examine her stock and assures them they may obtain all millinery and fancy goods at a great bargain, as she must dispose of her present stock.

Miss Hattie Lewis has the diphtheria.

NEVADA.

One Sagebrusher Who Appreciates the Battle-Born State.

The editor of the Austin Democrat lauds the land he lives in with enviable enthusiasm. Listen to the carol:

Few of us who live far away in apparently unattractive Nevada realize the blessings that we enjoy. While the South is scourged with fever, the North with diphtheria and malaria, the East with cyclones and thunder and lightning, and the west with earthquakes and small-pox, we of Nevada enjoy immunity from disease, and are blessed with a climate inferior to none, and not excelled even by California. Nevada has for more than 20 years been the poor man's friend. In all parts of the civilized world may be found men who once toiled in our mines and are now living in luxury and enjoying the fortunes of Nevada. Where is there another place where the smiling tradesman deals out the succulent bacon and the invigorating bean to the struggling prospector, and waits for years for him to "strike it" before presenting his bill? Is there another country on earth where there are no social distinctions between the wealthy banker and the poor laborer? Where is there a place that when the "hat" is passed round for a needy comrade, it comes back fuller than it does in Nevada? To appreciate the many advantages that we have over other countries, it is but necessary for us to go abroad for a short time, and we will return with blessings on our lips for the good old State in which we live.

The New State Capitol of Minnesota.

The vigorous State of Minnesota is facilitating herself, with good reason, upon the highly creditable appearance of her new State Capitol at St Paul. The old Territorial Capitol, completed in 1853, was destroyed by fire on the night of March 1st, 1881, while the Legislature was in session. It was at first thought that the foundation and a portion of the walls of the old building could be utilized, and a moderate appropriation was at once made with a view of restoring the building somewhat after the original plan. A more thorough examination, however, showed that this could not be safely done, and an entirely new structure was therefore determined on. The plans submitted by L. S. Buffington, a well-known architect were adopted, and the foundation of the new structure was laid in the Spring of 1881. The later months of that year proving unfavorable for the prosecution of building operations, the raising of the superstructure was deferred until this year. The first brick was laid on the 4th of last April and the masonry was completed a few weeks ago by the laying of the capstone on the tower by Gov. Hubbard, with appropriate ceremonies. When completed, according to the plans, this tower will be surmounted by a dome of beautiful design, but for the present it will be covered by a temporary roof.

The ground plan of the building measures 154 by 132 feet. The main walls are sixty feet from the foundation, and the tower is sixty-five feet above the roof. From the foundation-stone of the tower to the top of the dome, when completed, will be about 200 feet. The structure contains 4,000,000 bricks and 12,000 square feet of cut stone, and will cost, when completed in all respects, not far from $275,000. It is expected that the portion devoted to the Legislature will be ready for their use at the time for the annual session in January.

RECOINAGE OF TWENTY CENT PIECES AND UNCURRENT COINS.

The experiment in the recoining of the twenty cent pieces will soon be made at the Mint, in order to ascertain what the percentage of loss will be in making them up into dimes and quarters. There is yet money enough left in the appropriation to do a great deal of work in this line, the amount having been half absorbed in the loss incident to the coining of the silver three cent pieces. There has accumulated a large quantity of mutilated minor coins, and some 25 and 50 cent pieces, which are uncertain on account of abrasions. The great bulk of the work, however, is caused by the mutilation of silver coin from holes being punched in them for the manufacture of cheap jewelry. It is believed at the Mint Bureau that a large portion of the 20-cent pieces have been drawn from circulation for the manufacture of bangles by jewelers. In order to check this abuse as far as possible, the new coins are not allowed to be issued from the Mints except upon an order from the Treasurer, in sums of over $100. A large appropriation will be asked for next year, in order to supplement the loss in the recoining of the accumulated silver coin unfit for circulation through mint or mutilation.

A COUGH, COLD OR SORE THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an incurable Lung Disease or Consumption. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balms, but act directly on the inflamed parts, assuaging irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the Throat Troubles which Singers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always gives perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the ge. Sold at 25¢ a box everywhere.

NASBY'S CHRISTMAS GOODS.

Three Good Lessons.

"One of my first lessons," said Mr. Sturgis, the eminent merchant, "was in 1813, when I was eleven years old. My grandfather had a fine flock of sheep, which were carefully tended during war of those times. I was the shepherd boy, and my business was to watch the sheep in the fields. A boy who was more fond of his book than the sheep, was sent with me, but left the work to me, while he lay under the trees and read. I did not like that, and finally went to my grandfather and complained of it. I shall never forget the kind smile of the old gentleman, as he said: 'Never mind; Jonathan, my boy; if you watch the sheep, you will have the sheep.'

"What does grandfather mean by that?" I said to myself. "I don't expect to have sheep." My desires were moderate. I could not exactly make out in my mind what it was, but I had great confidence in him, for he was a judge, and had been in Congress in Washington's time; so I concluded it was all right, and went back contentedly to the sheep. After I got into the field I could not keep his words out of my head. Then I thought of my Sabbath School lesson: "Thou has been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things." I began to see through it. Never you mind who neglects his duty; be you faithful, and you will have your reward.

"I received a second lesson after I came to New York, as a clerk to the late Lyman Reed. A merchant from Ohio, who knew me, came to buy goods, and said, 'Make yourself so useful that they cannot do without you.' I took his meaning quicker than I did that of my grandfather."

"Well, I worked upon these two ideas until Mr. Reed offered me a partnership in the business. The first morning after the partnership was made known, Mr. James Geery, the old tea merchant, called in to congratulate me, and he said: 'You are right now. I have only one word of advice to give you: Be careful who you walk the streets with. That was lesson number three."

"And what valuable lessons they are!"

"Fidelity in all things; do your best to your employer; carelessness about your associates." Let everybody take these lessons home and study them. They are the foundation-stone of character and honorable success.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

The December number brilliantly closes the volume of this favorite magazine, and we remind our readers that now is the time to subscribe. The opening article is a most interesting history of "The Bank of England," by Richard B. Kimball; there are nine illustrations with a picture of the founder William Paterson. N. Robinson contributes "Segovia," and charmingly describes that quaint Spanish city. "Hats Off" will well repay the reader, as will also "A Beauty of the Last Century," "King Herring," "Mecca and its Pilgrims," "Seeing by Telegraph," etc., all of which are finely illustrated. The department of fiction is very interesting, for, besides the continuation of "A Whited Sepulchre," there are admirable stories, sketches, etc., by Oscar Zorich, K. V. Hastings, Marguerite Aymar, Eleanor Kirk, etc., etc. The poems are by favorite writers, several of them beautifully illustrated. There are also a variety of short articles, paragraphs, etc. on all sorts of subjects, and exceedingly entertaining and instructive. The 128 pages quarto are crowded with good things, literary and artistic. There are over 100 embellishments, and a handsome colored frontispiece, entitled "Little Sunbeam." A single number is only 25 cents, or $3 a year, postpaid. Address, Mrs. Frank Leslie, Publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

Our Manufacturing Interests.

A special census bulletin, just issued, contains a table of statistics compiled from the census returns of 1880 relating to all manufacturing industries, except gas, in each of the States and Territories. It shows that there were in the United States 263,840 establishments, employing 2,025,279 males above sixteen years of age; 531,753 females above the age of fifteen, and 181,918 children and youth. It shows that $2,799,223,056 capital was invested. The value of materials used amounted to $3,394,840,029; value of manufactured products, $5,369,607,706; total amount paid in wages during the year, $947,919,674.

No Damages For a Mangled Man.

H. L. Foreman, an employer of the Sutro Tunnel Company, on October 3, 1876, at the town of Sutro, lost his eyesight, the hearing of one ear, and had his spine injured by the explosion of a large number of giant powder cartridges. The following year he brought suit to recover $100,000 damages from the Giant Powder Company, on the ground that the explosion was caused by defective manufacture of the explosive. The plaintiff has been non-suited by Judge Allen, of the Superior Court, San Francisco.

THE EXILED PIUTES.

Leggins' Band Escapes From Yakima.

Naches has been informed, says the Silver State of Nov. 21, that Leggins' band of Piutes, consisting of about forty persons, made their escape from Yakima Reservation, north of the Columbia river, and are now or were a week ago, in Harney Valley. This band, though peaceable at the time of the Bannock war, four years ago, were treated exactly like the Indians on the war path, and exiled to Yakima. The Interior Department promised Naches, when he visited Washington, to send them back, but this promise was not kept. General McDowell, when retiring from the command of the Department of the Pacific, recommended that these Indians be sent back from Yakima, but there was no money for Indian Agents in the transaction, and no attention was paid to the recommendation. Last Summer over 100 Piutes escape from Yakima and crossed the Columbia, but were overtaken by Indian policemen from the reservation and taken back. This time, it appears, Leggins' party was more successful, and managed to get back to Harney Valley.
